

NEWS

Green light for more work at Broadgate

By Dave Rogers | 1 September 2017

Architect Orms behind public realm work at City of London landmark

Orms has been given planning permission for a public realm scheme in the City of London that involves updating the existing building's use as a marketing suite for the nearby Broadgate Estate.

Work at 3 Broadgate is due to start at the end of this year and be completed in 2018.

The building was put up 30 years ago and sits on a thoroughfare between Broadgate Circle and Finsbury Avenue Square.

Work will start later this year

ADVERTISEMENT

Most popular Most commented

World's tallest modular building set for Croydon

Shortlist announced for 2017 Carbuncle Cup

Willmott Dixon raids council for new off-site schools chief

London's High Point: Race to the top

ITV tower goes in for planning

Chinese developer's Wandsworth brewery revamp gets planning ok

A quick guide to collateral warranties and third party rights on construction projects

Tweets by @BuildingNews

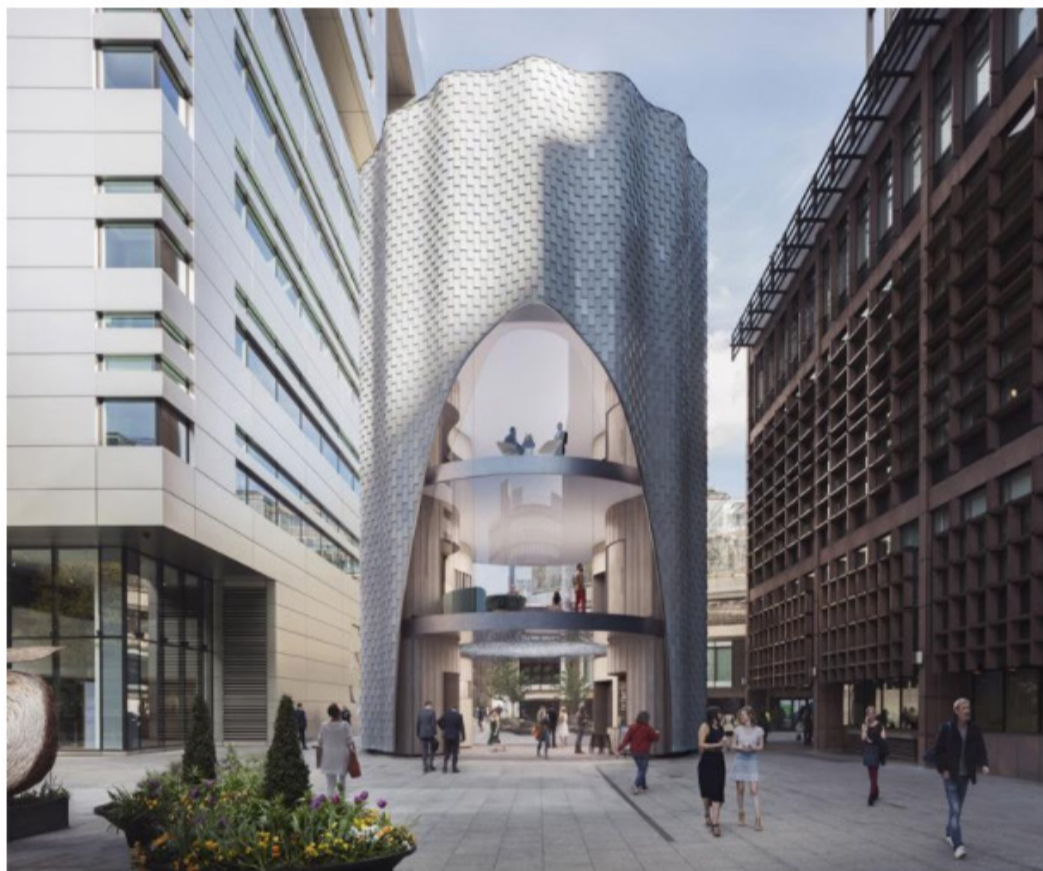

Building News @BuildingNews
Commercial work continues to fall, say construction buyers dlvr.it/PkhDw8

ORMS | 3 BROADGATE

It is getting a revamp as part of the wider work at the estate near Liverpool Street station which has seen Mace complete work on architect Make's scheme at the 5 Broadgate building next door which is a new headquarters building for Swiss bank UBS.

Developer on the scheme British Land said the arch design of the Orms scheme is intended to encourage some of the estimated 150,000 people who use the route daily to walk through the building rather than around it.

Earlier this summer, Skanska started work on another Orms project – a hotel and 800-seat venue and events space building behind London's world famous Tin Pan Alley music hotspot on Denmark Street.

The design is intended to encourage more people to walk through the building

Breaking news

Commercial work continues to fall, say...
Residential growth bucks overall slowdow...
building.co.uk

19m

Embed

View on Twitter

Search for building products for FREE

Windows SEARCH

Barbour
PRODUCT SEARCH

ORMS | 3 BROADGATE

Publication: Building

Date: 01 September 2017

URL: <https://www.building.co.uk/news/green-light-for-more-work-at-broadgate/5089458.article>

.ing